

ELKS' MINSTRELS ENTERTAIN AND PLEASE AN AUDIENCE WHICH FILLS THE OPERA HOUSE

ELKS' MINSTRELS WHEN THE CURTAIN RANG UP.

Elks on the stage captured the hearts of Honolulu last evening. In the initial appearance of the herd as entertainers, there was placed a brand, blown in the bottle, of perfection, the hall mark of excellence, for during three hours an audience which filled to its capacity the seating room in the Opera House, applauded the jokes, laughed at the clever takeoffs and departed finally with praise for the entertainment which had been afforded by the company of amateurs.

It was a night from the past, as it appeared when the curtain rose on the semi-circle of young men, the ends in black and the center men in evening coats. It went back to the days when Carnaross and Dixie, when Billy West entertained the entire country with their witticisms in black face, and the appreciation was such that the audience began to applaud the fun-makers when they saw them, and in fact seemed never to think of stopping but kept it up all the evening.

The jokes were not all new. It would have been too much to expect. They were all good however, their points undulled by age, but capable of amusing. One or two of the local hits were appreciated to the full. When Cunha, telling how he had wandered into Judge Gear's chambers and there got into a suit of the judge's clothes, going out at last and taking a place on the bench was asked as to what happened, he answered: "I can't tell; I went to sleep," and the crowd laughed. And again when spiritualism came up and one of the materializing mediums was given a chance to get a partner the new man asked why Attorney-General Andrews was not taken, as he had recently gone into the cabinet mystery business, there was a laugh to the full. Such hits, clever touches on the foibles of the well known men about town, light strokes of character study abounded and the audience was quick to note and ready to respond to the fanciful goading.

Of the extravaganzas the best in conception was the circus, perhaps. Nothing but was well done. Newton and Livingston in their acrobatic act, Kunkel in his magic and Livingston in the barebackriding, gave to the ridiculous features of their fakes the strongest coloring and earned the most hearty applause. Thompson's "spell," the call to see the wonders was of high humorous quality; some things perhaps might have been left unsaid just as well, for they did not strike the expected chord, but the percentage was too slight to be mentioned as a possible marred feature, and his strokes upon the legislators were telling.

Much had been expected and much was given in the Florodora takeoff, and those who had seen the sextet well done recently, could appreciate the burlesque which filled in the singing and dancing of the ten men who put into their parts the full of extravagant acting and costuming. The men varied from the grass skirted savage to the stage Dutchman, the tramp coming in with the Negro character as well.

The most unique thing in the olio was the laundry scene, which gave Henry Vierra and Akana Espinda opportunity to portray a pair of Chinese washmen, and their talk and action, their singing and final fight were things which were of the highest order of character extravaganzas portrayal.

The silent drill by Capt. Sam Johnson's men was brought off with a precision which won spontaneous applause, the audience seemingly being delighted to pay the tribute of appreciation to the men who have shown the most perfect mastery of the manual and the most complete control of time and weapon as well. Kunkel's monologue was bright and fetching. The sketch of Dunn and Newton was well thought out, had in it were local hits and bright sayings which delighted and it was well received throughout.

The purely musical features of the evening were many and worthy. In the opening medley several of the men took part, their voices being heard later in selections. Herzer, with Kunkel's new song "Gladys," Charles Elston with "Could I but tell you," Willis with "Under the Bamboo Tree," and Waterman in "Could You Be True to Eyes of Blue," all were well received, the two first having been heard before and being old and especial favorites being given most hearty applause, though of course there were encores demanded from each. The Tuxedo Quartette sang well.

During this first part Cunha sang a comic song and Livingston got off a conical melody both of which had to be repeated. The entire evening was under charge of Kunkel, who acted as interlocutor, the men in the company being as follows:

Bones—Guy Livingston, W. H. Charlock, C. E. Weston.
Tambo—Albert R. Cunha, Harry Newton, A. Mackintosh.
Gentlemen of the Circle—E. Hartman, H. W. Adams, A. Q. Marcellino, D. Renear, E. Buffandeau, H. Murray, R. Wright, H. Herzer, H. W. Willis, C. Elston, C. D. Waterman, E. C. Crabbe, F. M. Brooks, J. H. Harrison, H. Wilder, E. Brown.
In the Florodora song the following took part:
Ladies—A. R. Cunha, R. Harrison, D. Renear, E. Hartman, C. F. Waterman, Gentlemen—G. Livingston, A. Mackintosh, H. Herzer, R. Wright, A. Dunn.
The performance will be repeated tomorrow evening, the jokes being renewed and the songs being in many places made changed. The accompaniment by Berger's orchestra was excellent and the success of the show will be repeated without question.

NEWS OF THE WATERFRONT

CAPTAIN WHITNEY TESTED WYOMING

SAN FRANCISCO, May 8.—The United States monitor Wyoming returned yesterday from her forty-eight-hour final trial, during which she demonstrated her ability to respond to all the requirements of the specifications under which she was built. She has been in commission nearly half a year, and the making of the final payment to the builders depends upon the report of the board that had charge of this trial. Judging by Captain Cottman's account of the trip the money will be promptly paid.

Captain W. H. Whitney was president of the board, the other members of which were Lieutenant Commanders Stafford and Loper and Naval Constructor Tawressey. Ensign Branch acted as recorder.

COULD NOT FISH AGAINST JAPS

After months of experimenting, and in keen competition with the Japanese fishermen off Honolulu harbor, the Italians who came here from San Francisco to carry on the fishery business on a large scale, returned to San Francisco yesterday in the W. H. Dimond. The launch which they brought here from the coast was carried on the Dimond's deck. The Italians barely made a living at fishing here, and gradually had to adopt Japanese methods before they had results which paid them anything.

The American ship Edward Sewall finished discharging her ballast cargo of Shanghai mud at the anchorage outside the harbor yesterday and came into port and anchored in Naval Row.

Sonoma's Rough Voyage.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 5.—A head sea and strong winds caused a delay in the arrival of the Oceanic liner Sonoma from Sydney yesterday, the run from Honolulu occupying 5 days and 16 hours. Although expected early in the day, as usual, the steamer did not reach port until after 4 o'clock, and the time intervening before the departure of the afternoon overland train, upon which the English mails were scheduled to depart, was so brief that special permission was given by Quarantine Official Cumming for the Spreckels tugboat Relief to meet the Sonoma in quarantine grounds and take off the through mail, amounting to 257 bags, which was then hurried to Oakland in time to catch the 6 o'clock train. A total of 428 bags of mail was brought by the liner, and she reached her slip at Pacific-street wharf at 6 o'clock.

A record cargo was brought by the Sonoma, the freight amounting to 1840 tons, or more than has ever been brought through from the Antipodes by any of the three big steamers of the Spreckels line. The number of passengers was also unusually large, and the statement was made by some of them that the trip had been remarkably enjoyable, entertainments and concerts being of frequent occurrence. The whole number of over 200 passengers signed a testimonial to Captain Herri-man, expressing appreciation of his interest in their welfare and entertainment, and expressing the same sentiments toward Purser G. A. Hodson, Chief Steward Hackett, Chief Officer Coughan and Chief Engineer Archie Little.

The North German Lloyd training bark Herzogin Sophie Charlotte, the sailing of which for Honolulu was published in the Advertiser several weeks ago, is scheduled to arrive here in July. The vessel will bring a cargo of merchandise for Hackett & Co. The vessel has about fifty cadets for the Lloyd service. She is a four-masted bark.

ELEU CARRIES SARGENT ON TRIP

Commissioner of Immigration Sargent was a guest of honor aboard the tug Eleu yesterday forenoon on a trip to Pearl Harbor. The other guests were Mr. Donahue, his secretary, B. F. Dillingham, Walter Dillingham, A. L. C. Atkinson, Henry E. Cooper, E. E. Paxton, L. E. Pinkham, A. Gartley, Marston Campbell, Dr. Cofer. The party then went ashore at the Peninsula and took a special train to the sisal plantation, returning to Honolulu by train. The tug had no difficulty in entering the harbor. She draws 13 feet.

Shipping Notes.

The British ship Glencairn is taking on ballast and will soon depart for Portland.

The British ship Oswald commenced discharging coal yesterday at the Inter-Island wharf.

The bark Alden Besse sailed from San Francisco for Honolulu on May 6 with a cargo valued at $18,521.

The barkentine S. G. Wilder sailed from San Francisco May 3 for Honolulu with an assorted merchandise cargo valued at $12,598.

The ship Benj. Packard sailed for San Francisco yesterday with 3400 tons of sugar. She will sail for the Sound after discharging there, and load for Philadelphia.
